

User management

Manage the users who work with the system and assign them to sites. Manage the actions that the user performs on the site by assigning the user to roles.

Role management

Map permissions to reusable user groups, such as editors or designers, to which you then assign specific users.

Permissions

Control which actions users can perform in the administration interface and on the live site.

User registration

Allow visitors to set up their own accounts on your site. Provide a way for visitors with existing Microsoft Account, Open ID, Facebook or LinkedIn accounts to sign in on your site.

UI Personalization

Set up the administration interface for different types of users in the system. This enables you to tailor the experience users have when working with Kentico based on their roles.

Community features

Features that you can use to enhance the experience of users on your site. Allow users to identify themselves, communicate and form a community.
