

The editor in Kentico provides you with functionality similar to the one in Word. You can use the editor whenever you are entering content into editable areas in pages or, for example, when editing pages.

The toolbar

The toolbar in the editor allows you to manipulate the content of the text area that you are editing. You can not only work with text itself but also perform actions like embedding various types of media content. This chapter describes many of the actions that you can perform using the editor toolbar.
